Assassination plots kept secret

CIA faces possible prosecution

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Creation of a joint congressional committee to oversee the Central Intelligence Agency is among the 30 recommendations made by the Rockefeller Commission to prevent future wrongdoing by the agency, according to authoritative sources.

In addition to a congressional panel modeled after the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, the commission headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller calls for the establishment of a separate oversight organization within the executive branch, the informed sources said.

President Ford told a nationally broadcast news conference Monday night that the commission report on CIA domestic activities would be made public today but that evidence dealing with alleged assassination plots against foreign leaders would be kept secret.

Evidence on assassination would be turned over to the Justice Department for possible prosecution and to both the Senate and House intelligence committees, Ford said. "There's not going to be any possibility of a cover-up," the President added.

Allegations about assassination plots date back to the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations, according to one White House official.

Ford said that "under no circumstances do I want to sit in 1975 passing judgments made by honorable people 15 or more years ago under unusual circumstances. I think it is better to let history tell the story" of the alleged plots.

The alleged plots have been said to include plans to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Senate intelligence committee, said after the news conference that "it is obvious that the Senate committee will have to deal with the assassination issue."

Robert A. Maheu, a former aide to billionaire Howard Hughes, appeared before the Senate panel Monday but he invoked the Fifth Amendment. A committee spokesman indicated the panel has tentatively decided to grant Maheu immunity in return for testimony on alleged links between the CIA and the Mafia in efforts to kill Castro.

Meanwhile, Democrats on the House intelligence committee were promised a separate subcommittee to investigate the CIA in return for abandoning their demands that Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., step down as chairman of the full committee. A majority of the committee's Democrats called for Nedzi's resignation last week after a published report that he had been informed of alleged CIA assassination plots and other wrongdoing more than a year ago but had not called for a congressional investigation.

In the course of the 30-minute news conference in the White House Rose Garden, Ford also said:

—Despite the 9.2 per cent unemployment rate in May, he is optimistic the economy has "bottomed out."

—The time is getting closer and closer to a specific announcement of his candidacy for a full four-year presidential term in 1976.

—One of the lessons learned from Vietnam is that, while the United States must work with other governments that believe in protecting their own freedom, "we cannot fight their battles for them."

—He plans to announce his long-promised reassessment of U.S. policy in the Middle East following two days of talks this week with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

—The policy of maintaining 38,000 American troops in South Korea is "keeping the peace" but the matter is constantly under review.

—The delayed visit to Washington by Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev may take place this fall, at which time Ford hopes a second strategic arms limitation agreement can be signed.

—An East-West European security conference may soon be scheduled in Helsinki, Finland.

—Congress can avoid a series of veto confrontations with the White House if it "acts responsibly" to hold spending down.

On the Rockefeller Commission, Ford said his reading of the 300-page report and the secret 86-page compilation of information on alleged assassination plots "leads me to the conclusion that the panel has been fair, frank and balanced."

He said certain administrative actions will have to be taken as a result of some of the things he found in the report, but he did not elaborate.

Ford said that after he has further studied the commission recommendations he will send Congress "the necessary measures to insure that the intelligence community functions in a way designed to protect the constitutional rights of all Americans." Ford also expressed his "deep personal conviction" that CIA and other intelligence units "are vital to the survival of this country."

Earlier, assistant White House counsel Roderick M. Hills explained to reporters that the President would not make public the evidence of alleged plots against foreign leaders because the record is not complete and therefore could be misleading.

Over $140,000 in federal monies OK'd

CAC programs receive funding

By GEORGE MALEK

Two programs currently operated by the Fayette County Community Action Commission have received federal funding for another year.

Just over $100,000 in funds will support a program of adult work experience which now provides jobs for 26 persons. These persons are employed by non-profit organizations throughout the county.

Another $40,000 will continue the youth program which operates during the school year. Employment for 10 hours per week is provided for students. The jobs, whenever possible, relate to the students' interests or vocational training.

The adults work 35 hours per week at the minimum wage. Employers who currently have these adults in their work force include the city street department, the county garage, Fayette Memorial Hospital, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, Deer Creek State Park and the Washington Cemetery.

John Borrowman, CAC planner, said the purpose of the program is to give the participants work experience. Their salaries are paid through the CAC, at no cost to the employer.

The participants are largely persons who have not had creditable work records in the past or who have never held a job. Without the work program many would be receiving federal money while providing no services whatsoever.

If an eligible person refuses work through the CAC program or performs exceptionally poorly, he forfeits the right to collect several other forms of government relief.

The aim of the program is to acquaint these workers with the routine of a steady job and to provide them with some skills which will be of benefit in private employment.

Although the governmental guidelines limit an individual's participation to two years under the program, Borrowman said the agency here has limited participation to one year. "There are many more people eligible than we have jobs for," he said, "and one year should be long enough to get one person started."

He noted that several persons have been hired by the agencies for which they work when permanent openings become available. He said that some of the employees of the city department originally were hired through the CAC.

The funding which has been approved will continue the program through 1976.

THE YOUTH program has been funded for the 1975-76 school year. Students are paid by the CAC for up to 10 hours per week at a rate of $2.10 per hour, the minimum wage.

Some of the students work during school hours doing janitorial work or helping in the lunch rooms. Others are employed after school.

One student who is in an automobile mechanics course at Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School is employed by the school after hours for bus maintenance.

Although this is the ideal type of situation, it is not the rule, CAC officials said. It is not often that part-time jobs can be found in the student's particular interest area.

However, it was explained that the purpose of the program is not vocational training, but the more basic concepts of work. These include being punctual, not missing days of work and learning to take criticism and advice from the employer.

In addition, this employment provides some monies for the student which may be used to assist the family income or for items the family might not otherwise be able to purchase.

All participants must meet standards of income set by the federal government in order to qualify for the program.

Jack Hagerty, CAC director, who works closely with the two programs, said that they are sometimes criticized for a degree of inefficiency. Since the employers are not paying the participants directly, they occasionally do not assign enough work to keep the employees busy at all times.

Some of the participants do not have glowing work records on the job and are sometimes lax in their work.

However, Hagerty notes, in the case of the adult program, most of the participants would receive welfare or other benefits without working if it were not for this program.

Those who put forth an honest effort contribute and build their work record. Those who do not will find it difficult to obtain another job when their term with the program expires, and if they have been extremely uncooperative, they may lose eligibility for other benefits, he repeated.

It was also noted that the cost to the government for each adult employee is approximately $4,500 per year. If the participant is successful and later finds regular private employment, that amount of money will be repaid to the government through taxes in about five years.

CAC officials contend that this type of program is therefore much more effective than subsidies which offer no work training and have little chance of having the money repaid by the participants.

Bullets aimed at students misfired, guardsman says

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—An ex-Ohio National Guardsman who aimed his rifle at students five years ago pleaded faulty memory repeatedly today as an attorney questioned his current and recent sworn statements.

With William Perkins of Canton on the stand a second day in the trial stemming from the Kent State University flareup, Joseph Kerner, leading attorney for the plaintiffs, read from a deposition Perkins made four months ago in which Perkins placed former Guard Sgt. Myron Pryor and ex-Guard Capt. Raymond Srp at the scene.

In that statement, Kerner reminded Perkins, the witness said Pryor was carrying a .45-caliber pistol and that Perkins had seen Srp without a gas mask.

On the stand today, Perkins testified he couldn't remember seeing either of the officers at the time of the shootings.

In the deposition, Perkins said he didn't recall precisely what students were doing when he turned and began firing. Today he testified that they were "rushing us."

He also testified today that he felt surrounded and that he saw students in front of him when he turned but that he didn't remember where along the line of guardsmen he was standing when the gunfire began.

Kerner then asked whether Perkins had ever discussed with his lawyers his testimony that he didn't remember details of the shootings.

"I don't recall," Perkins replied.

On Monday Perkins testified he pulled the trigger of his rifle eight times during the confrontation with students on campus that May 4, 1970. He also said three of the shots, ones aimed chest high at the student demonstrators, had misfired.

Five of the shots were aimed into the air, he said under cross examination by Joseph Kerner, a lawyer for the shooting victims. Kerner then read him part of a five-year-old statement in which the ex-guardsman said the last three shots were leveled at demonstrators.

What the June 1970 statement to the Highway Patrol omitted, Perkins said, was that the three rounds misfired and never left the rifle until he ejected the cartridges manually.

The witness said he heard a shot to his rear and turned to see as many as 100 students about 30 feet away. The first shots went into the air because he believed fellow guardsmen were firing a warning, he said.

The last shots were fired with the rifle at his waist, Perkins said, after he saw a man fall and realized demonstrators were being shot at. In the statement Kerner read, Perkins was quoted as saying that after he discovered guardsmen were shooting at students, he followed suit.

Perkins told the lawyer students were charging towards guardsmen even though the troops were armed with rifles and bayonets.

Perkins is one of 44 present and former guardsmen and state officials being sued for $46 million by nine students wounded and parents of four killed. Among the defendants is Gov. James Rhodes.

Attorneys for both sides were to meet after today's session to review videotapes of television interviews given May 30 by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark. An attorney for Rhodes told the court Monday that Clark may have violated a gag rule imposed by U.S. District Court Judge Don Young.

One of the stations which Attorney R. Brooke Alloway said aired segments of the interview was WBNS, the CBS affiliate in Columbus. CBS challenged the gag rule in federal appeals court last Friday.

Clark took part in pretrial hearings but Kerner said the former cabinet official had not been connected with the plaintiffs' case since the beginning of jury selection May 19.

At Council meeting

City tax reciprocity proposal to be eyed

An amendment to the city income tax ordinance to provide relief and reciprocity to residents and non-residents of Washington C.H. who are subject to other municipal income taxes will be considered by Washington C.H. City Council during its regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said the primary reason for amending the income tax ordinance is so that residents and non-residents would not be forced to pay full taxes in both the city where they work and the municipality where they reside.

The decision to prepare the reciprocity amendment was approved by City Council members during their last regular meeting.

Wolford said City Council members will also place on first reading an emergency ordinance adopting rules and regulations for the transaction of business at regular Council meetings.

The proposed ordinance is designed to attract more public participation in City Council's decision-making processes, according to the city manager.

City Council members will also hear reports from Wolford regarding the purchase of new cruisers for the Washington C.H. Police Department and a report on proposals received for group health insurance coverage for all city employees.

Election expenses total $4,700

Special vote costs tabulated

Costs of conducting the special election to decide a proposal designed to abandon the present city manager form of government in Washington C. H. have been compiled by the Fayette County Board of Elections.

Mrs. Mary Jean Jennings, director of the Fayette County Board of Elections, said the total cost for the special election held last Tuesday was $4,764.46.

Washington C. H. voters defeated a proposal which would have adopted a federal (mayor) plan in favor of the 39-year-old city manager-council form of government by 291 votes at the June 3 special election.

A total of 2,247 Washington C. H. residents cast ballots in the special election.

Mrs. Jennings said the top expense was the payment of salaries to the 80 precinct officials in the city's 20 polling places. The cost was $2,332.

Other costs were as follows:

Rental of facilities (15) to be used as polling places, $225; transportation of voting equipment to the polling places,

$330; printing of ballots, poll books and other election supplies, $888.19; cost of delivering ballots and other election supplies, $100; postage for mailing the proposition to all Washington C. H. voters prior to the election, $411.08; printing of the proposition which was mailed to all city electors, $299.19; salaries for special clerks and tabulators, $142; rental of one typewriter, $2, and salaries for custodians in the various polling places, $35.

The Fayette County Board of Elections Monday certified the vote from the special election.

Certified vote totals were 974 for the proposition and 1,265 against; 800 in favor of electing councilmen at-large and 1,209 in favor of council members by wards, and 1,278 favoring the adoption of recall, and 602 opposed.

Demos bottle city tax bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bills to grant state taxpayers relief from double municipal taxation are bottled up by House Democrats, the House minority leader charged Monday.

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Bowling Green, said three bills dealing with the situation have been introduced, but all have been stopped by the House Reference Committee, which chooses committee assignments for bills.

Kurfess, in a letter to House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe, D-89 New Boston, urged quick action.

"Persons who were once protected from double taxation by municipal provisions which grant a tax credit or deduction for municipal income taxes paid other municipalities now find that these agreements are being repealed by the municipalities," Kurfess said.

"The situation has progressively worsened and serious legislative consideration is urgently needed in order to assure a fair method of municipal taxation for all Ohioans," he said.

Showers over the lower Ohio Valley in southern Indiana and western Kentucky during the night will spread gradually over southwestern Ohio this afternoon and over the rest of the state tonight and Wednesday.

Little temperature change is in sight, with afternoon highs in the 70s generally and overnight lows in the upper 50s to mid 60s.

Temperatures this morning were somewhat higher than Monday. At sunrise, readings were in the 50s across northern Ohio and in the low to mid 60s in the south. Coolest was at Youngstown with 53 degrees. Some cloudiness covered most of the state except the northeast portion.

High pressure from Lake Ontario to southern New England and a low pressure center extending from North Dakota southward to Texas continues to drift eastward. The low will lie along a line from eastern Wisconsin to western Kentucky by Wednesday evening and continue to dominate Ohio's weather.

A chance of showers Thursday through Saturday. Highs in the upper 70s and low 80s. Lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Heavy rains swamp Texas

By The Associated Press
Torrential rains swamped parts of southeast Texas with more than a foot of rain today and forced evacuations in bayou areas.

Flash-flood warnings and watches were issued for Texas counties from the Panhandle to southeast Texas, for northern and west-central Louisiana and for western Missouri.

Seventeen inches of rain poured into Sourlake, Tex., from Monday morning until midnight, 12 inches landed on Lumberton, nearly 10 inches dropped into Deweyville and almost 5 inches hit Beaumont. In Missouri, nearly 4.5 inches soaked Springfield.

At Houston, the rains flooded streets Monday night around the Astrodome and delayed both fans and players en route to the Houston Astros-Chicago Cubs baseball game. Cars were left stalled along highways and traffic on some roads was backed up for miles. The game was nearly an hour late starting.

The rains fell out of thunderstorms ranging from the southern Plains to the south Atlantic Coast and north into the middle Mississippi Valley.

Tornadoes dipped out of the thunderstorms over Texas west of Abilene and southwest of Friona. There were no reports of damage or injuries.

Showers stretched from the northern Plains into the upper Mississippi Valley and rain and snow chilled the northern Rockies. A travelers warning was in effect for heavier snow in portions of the Colorado Rockies.

Fair weather was confined mainly to the West and the Northeast.

Budget deficit may bring tax hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate Democrats now say they are convinced that the House-approved, $10.7 billion budget bill is nearly $40 million short of being balanced.

As a result, said Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, the 21-member Democratic Senate caucus will look more seriously at a possible tax increase.

Meshel said the decision will come "within the next week or 10 days", and that majority Democrats have not reached a consensus which, if any taxes, should be hiked.

"The only alternative is to start making cuts," he said.

The Youngstown lawmaker, whose committee heard even graver deficits predicted Monday night by an administration spokesman, said he may propose an increase in the state income tax. But it would only affect those in high income categories now paying the 3½ per cent ceiling, he said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment which may save hundreds of miles of Ohio rail lines from abandonment is expected to go to a vote in the House on Wednesday.

The amendment would make Ohio eligible to receive $9 million in federal subsidies to continue operation of the jeopardized lines, marked for abandonment in the federal rail reorganization plan.

Employers along the lines have testified that abandonment would cost hundreds, perhaps thousands, of jobs.

Budget and Management Director Howard L. Collier told the committee that his own revenues estimates, scrapped by the Democratic House along with the budget proposal of GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes, show the Democratic measure needs from $140 million to $150 million more to be fully funded.

Collier declined to answer questions by some committee members that apparently were designed to get him to admit that the state may need to hike taxes. Rhodes successfully campaigned last year on a platform that promised no new or increased taxes.

The director said that since the Democratic majority in the House discarded the governor's proposal, he felt the legislative leadership had taken on the responsibility of making policy. He said the issue of raising taxes "is partisan, although it shouldn't be, whether we like it or not." He pledged the cooperation of his office in helping the lawmakers find alternatives.

For example, he said, "if you want to know how much revenue a quarter of a per cent in the sales tax would produce, we can get you the information." He said his office would not be willing to get involved in "anything that is partisan," however.

The budget director said that while the state will end its current fiscal biennium July 1 with a balance of about $220 million, compared to earlier estimates of $254 million, all of those funds already are committed.

"By late September or early October, every dollar of it (the balance) will have been spent along with revenues from July, August, and September. At that point, we go into the red, under House Bill 155 (the Democratic proposal)." He said the state would have a deficit in 21 or 22 months of the next biennium, soaring to a high of about $375 million in January, 1977.

The amendment was defeated earlier this year through the opposition of Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes.

But it was held on the calendar while Republicans assisted in redrafting the proposal. Republican leaders now say the resolution will have their support.

"Obviously it's crucial," said Rep. William Batchelder, R-93 Medina, who led the floor fight against the amendment its first time around. Batchelder, a key Republican in the redrafting effort, is expected to lead floor debate for the amendment this week.

The amendment was drafted in response to the federal reorganization of seven bankrupt rail lines into one private profitable railroad, the Consolidated Rail Corp., or ConRail.

To make the line profitable, federal planners have proposed lopping off all spur lines which don't earn their keep. The proposal has a major impact on industries located along the spur lines, which often will lose economical means to transport their products.

To ease the burden, the Congress offered $90 million in federal subsidies to continue operating the lines for two years. But Ohio presently is barred from using its $9 million share because of a constitutional prohibition.

The amendment, sponsored by Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, would remove that prohibition.

Batchelder said the governor opposed the amendment because its phrasing was too open-ended, allowing the state to participate too much in private operations.

As redrafted, the amendment would allow state aid only to ConRail. ConRail and other railroads also could receive limited financial assistance through tax abatements.

Batchelder predicted between 15 and 20 Republicans would vote for the revised amendment. Barring massive defections by Democrats, that would assure the amendment of passage.

Wilkowski, who bitterly denounced the Republicans when the amendment was first defeated, said he would cooperate with the minority forces in passing the revised version.

"I have stayed completely out of the redrafting," Wilkowski said, "and I'm not in perfect accord with the redrafted version. But it is my intention to bring it up for reconsideration."

The rail plan as originally proposed by the U.S. Railway Association called for abandoning about 900 miles of track in Ohio, but provided the subsidies on a 70 per cent federal-30 per cent state matching basis.

The federal Rail Services Planning Office, in evaluating the USRA plan, estimated Ohio would not need its full share to keep the lines operating in their present condition, but would need extra money if it wished to rehabilitate the more dilapidated lines.

The RSPO estimated that without rehabilitation, Ohio will need $1.77 million in federal funds annually, matched with an additional $758,000 annually in state money.

With rehabilitation, the RSPO said, Ohio would need $4.94 million in federal funds annually and $2.12 million annually in state funds.

The federal funds expire in two years. Wilkowski, Batchelder and legislative staff personnel said no plans have been made for what might happen to branch lines then.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell into a broad decline today in the midst of concern over the prospect of another jump in oil prices.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 8.76 at 821.34, and losers outpaced gainers by more than a 4-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

By midday there had been no official announcement from a meeting of oil-exporting nations in Africa of any straight price increases to take effect Sept. 30. But news reports from the conference said several delegates expected an agreement to be reached providing for an increase of as much as 30 to 35 per cent.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .64 to 89.26.

In oil stocks, Exxon was off ½ at 86½; Atlantic Richfield ¾ at 98½; Getty 6½ to 183½, and Continental 1½ at 64½.

Senate debate live on TV

Many a moment tagged as "historic" has small legitimate claim to this distinction. That cannot be said of the moment when, for the first time, debate on the Senate floor will be covered by radio and television.

This will occur when the Senate opens discussion of the disputed New Hampshire senatorial election. Television cameras did record the proceedings when Nelson A. Rockefeller took office as vice president last year, but never before has television coverage of floor debate been permitted.

The Senate is thus tentatively dipping a toe into the chilly waters of letting the public observe doings in the legislative chambers at first hand. There are valid arguments for and against this. On balance, we think, the case for letting in the TV cameras prevails.

The cameramen should function as unobtrusively as possible, but there should be no undue restrictions on freedom to broadcast things as they are. If these general guidelines are followed, live coverage of congressional debate should do much to raise the public's sense of how our laws are made.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

The Shah's dream

TEHRAN — Achieving a system that combines the best of all other systems and yet cannot be tagged as capitalist, Communist, liberal or any ism is the goal of the shah of Iran.

In the vast glittering audience chamber of the Niavaran Palace he voices the hope that within a decade Iran will have achieved standards in the human and social field as well as in industry and technology equal to those of Western Europe.

Presiding over the modernization of his country with an authority that few rulers in the world can claim, he speaks with the earnestness, the quiet intensity, that is his hallmark. Slight, unassuming in appearance, his word carries weight to the farthest corners of this land that is increasingly an amalgam of East and West, ancient tribal customs and computerized industry.

"Devising a philosophy and a program invented by ourselves, a new world must emerge from ourselves," he says. "This is our aim. It is a movement up and up in the moral and social field as well as in technology. Major industries such as oil and steel must be state owned, but the balance must be private to provide incentive."

The workers presently get 20 per cent of profits, and a plan is being worked out under which 49 per cent of enterprises will be acquired by workers, farmers and others on easy terms helped by the government, with loans at low interest rates.

While the shah said that relations with the United States could not be better, following his recent state visit to Washington, he spoke feelingly of attacks in the press in America on Iran.

An editorial in the Washington Post, saying that the assassination of two American Air Force colonels could be explained by the lack of any outlet for political protest, has drawn widespread criticism. The shah spoke with something like betterness of this charge.

Is it democracy, he asked, is it an outlet for political protest, when President Kennedy, his brother Robert and Martin Luther King are assassinated? What of crime in the streets of your capital? Murderers who go unpunished?

He mentioned, too, recent reports in Tehran newspapers of two masked men appearing on a New York television station claiming they had supported the terrorists who killed the Air Force colonels. The shah said he found such boasting impossible to understand.

There are small bands of terrorists, perhaps 150 altogether. They are so-called intellectuals for the most part from middle class backgrounds. Some are Islamic-Marxists. A paradox? Yes, that is a paradox.

A New York Times story, apparently from a Pentagon leak, giving the details of an Iranian-U.S. contract with Rockwell International of Anaheim, Calif., calling for setting up an intelligence system throughout the Persian Gulf, also drew the Shah's ire.

This was a state secret that should have been disclosed officially, if at all. The press here is, of course, at the opposite extreme. Nothing is published that does not have the approval of the government. Ideology does not get in the way of relations between Iran and the superpower on the northern border.

The Soviets built the steel plant at Isfahan which they are now enlarging. This was paid for with Iranian natural gas. A big tripartite deal is being worked out with an exchange of gas between Iran, Russia and Germany that will total $4 billion.

But the shah has strong feelings about the rights of the states that along with Iran front on the Persian Gulf. "The superpowers should keep out. We are telling the world we are capable of taking care of ourselves," he says.

The United States has a small naval base at Bahrain. The Russians have a port on an island near Kuwait. According to the shah, this is used for large ships and their movement through the gulf is resented. Iran is now building bases on the sea of Oman and on the Gulf. The littoral states, he says, must insure their own security without superpower intervention.

With the oil wealth, the rapid exploitation of natural gas reserves and the development of a petro-chemical industry, the shah faces the future, despite a 19 per cent cut in oil production, with confidence.

He insists, as he did in Washington, that a new oil price increase is justified because of the inflated cost of the goods Iran must buy, even though his figures were refuted by Washington officials. As the ruler of a country that little more than a generation ago relied on camel power, he has reason for his confidence.

Those arrested after the rock-and-bottle throwing incident at the site of the Springnationals drag races were charged with disorderly conduct and intoxication.

The two persons who were found guilty were fined $75.

Police Chief Duke Barber of Union Township said his department answered a disturbance call and the cruiser was met by a crowd he estimated at 1,500.

The disturbance began in a small tavern and moved to the track, Barber said. He said a section of U.S. 40 was closed for about three hours while the crowd was dispersed.

A windshield in a department cruiser was smashed and a car kicked by the mob, Barber said.

Your morale should get a boost now. Some new light is shed on old problems and you find more persons responding to your efforts.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be willing to give the spotlight to others now. By taking a back seat temporarily you can eventually accelerate YOUR move forward.

A day which you can mold pretty much to your liking. Take a firm and knowing hand early and plan your schedule smartly. Make no snap decisions, however.

PISCES

Self-reliance should be your keyword now. Don't let others do your thinking for you. Neither let anyone sway you from a worthwhile course.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant mind, a dynamic personality and a wealth of talents which fit you for outstanding success in almost any field of your choosing. Art, music, literature and the stage are excellent outlets for your exceptional gifts but, should you decide to go into the business world, you would make an exceptionally good stock broker — if you avoid strong tendencies to speculate. You have a vivid imagination and are highly original in anything you undertake; are also possessed of a strong intensity and a driving force which can wear others down. As a hobby, you may be attracted to astrology or any one of the occult sciences.

Licking court hears of riot

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — One person was acquitted and two others found guilty and fined Monday when they appeared in Licking County Common Pleas Court in connection with a disturbance over the weekend at National Trail Raceway.

Two other persons pleaded innocent and trial dates were being set, a clerk of court said. Thirteen persons didn't appear for the hearings and forfeited bond.

Those arrested after the rock-and-bottle throwing incident at the site of the Springnationals drag races were charged with disorderly conduct and intoxication.

"AND WRING OUT THE HOSE."

Padding, laxatives help at Miss America Pageant

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer
HAVERHILL, Iowa (AP) — Jean Bollhoefer, a 26-year-old farmer's daughter, has a few inside tips about competing in the Miss America Pageant.

Take a laxative before the bathing suit competition to flatten your tummy, grease your teeth with petroleum jelly to keep them shiny for the judges, and bring some padding, advises the outgoing Miss Iowa.

"I've never seen so much padding in my life as I did when I got to Atlantic City," she said. She admitted that she took some of her own to the pageant last September.

"It's a show for the American public, sure, but if you've got any brain at all, you can use it to your best advantage and not let them use you," she said in a recent interview.

Miss Bollhoefer insists she isn't beautiful in the traditional sense.

"Not the external part of me. You do have to be attractive, but it's the personality that's most important."

She contends other beauty contests are "stock auctions" because the girls aren't competing for scholarships.

"Many people feel the Miss America program is like any other beauty contest, but it's not," she said. "The Miss USA contest is strictly high on the swim suit, how you look. It's not an all-around competition."

"The Miss America competition stresses interviews with judges. This is why many times you can't tell how a girl is going to look on television."

Miss Bollhoefer is 5-foot-7, wears braces on her teeth and was graduated with honors from Iowa State University in 1971. She says she won't marry "until I find someone not smarter than I am."

She was runnerup in the 1972 Miss Iowa contest, was invited to the 1973 Miss America pageant to sing at parties, then won the 1974 state title and made it to Atlantic City as a contestant.

She didn't finish among the top 10 finalists but believes she's qualified to speak candidly of "tricks of the trade."

"I received a $1,000 talent award (singing) and that's only because I out-talked reporters. I'm the only girl in 54 pageants to get flowers and green bananas — I love them — from the press."

"And I was too old to be nervous" in interviews with judges. "I told them downhome, funny things about being a farmer's daughter. Happiness is a habit and it's got to be cultivated every day."

But personality does it, she said — "Like my braces. I've had a ball with them. They're a tremendous conversation piece, and I get more miles and more laughs out of them."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Drinkers seeks way to stop

DEAR ABBY: Do you have a paragraph or a phrase that would make me think twice when I am tempted to take a drink?

I am not a heavy drinker. In fact, I hardly ever drink at all, but when I do, it hits me hard.

I made a fool of myself again last night, and I am sick of it. I've done that only five times in my life, and it only happens when I am out with friends. The next day when I wake up, I have to depend on other people to tell me what I did.

If I had just one meaningful phrase to keep me from weakening and having a drink with my friends, I would carry it with me. A Bible is too big to carry around I am 20. Thank you.

FOOLISH GIRL

DEAR GIRL: When you are faced with temptation, tell your friends that hard liquor is "poison" to you and that you cannot drink it. Then silently pray: "Oh, Lord, give me the strength I need right now," and quickly pour yourself a non-alcoholic beverage. After one sip, pray again: "Thank you, Lord. I made it!"

Try it, and let me know the results. I care.

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column has caused me to drop my campaign to get the letter "q" removed from the dictionary and transferred to "k", where it belongs. I quickly discovered that I might be dead before anyone would even be interested.

Now I would like to start a campaign to get all people to quit using the phrase "made love" when they mean "had sex."

I am irritated beyond words when I read that "a couple met at a party, went to a motel and made love." It's an insult to the act of lovemaking! What they did was have sex. Love had nothing to do with it.

Before I risk wasting my time on this campaign, please tell me if you think I have a point.

VAL (MASCULINE)

DEAR VAL: You have a point, but whether it's worthy of a campaign raises another question. I plead not guilty. When I mean "I had sex," I don't say, "They made love."

DEAR ABBY: The other night I babysat for a neighbor. She has three kids. The oldest is in the 6th grade (I am 16).

I walked into the kitchen and my gosh, you've never seen a bigger mess in all your life! When the woman left, she said, "Oh, be sure to clean up the kitchen. I just hate coming home to a messy kitchen!"

At first I was stunned. Then I thought for sure she would pay me extra if I did the kitchen.

When she came home, she gave me a dollar LESS than she had agreed to, even with my cleaning up her kitchen. I really was angry, but I didn't say anything to her because I am very shy. Besides, she is a friend of my mother's.

I know she'll ask me to babysit again, and I don't want to, but I don't have the nerve to tell her how I feel and why. Can you help me?

ANGRY AND PUZZLED

DEAR A AND P: Not if you refuse to help yourself. Tell her in a respectful tone that you don't want to sit for her again because she shorted you a dollar last time. And also tell her that if she wants her kitchen cleaned, she should be prepared to pay a little extra.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday June 10, the 161st day of 1975. There are 204 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1610, the first Dutch settlers in America landed on Manhattan Island.

On this date:
In 1776, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia named a committee to draft the American Declaration of Independence.

In 1942, the Nazi Gestapo killed the 173 male residents of Lidice, Czechoslovakia, to retaliate for the assassination of a German official.

In 1945, General Dwight Eisenhower received the Soviet Union's highest award, the Order of Victory.

Ten years ago: Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board said his warnings about the national economy was not responsible for a drop in prices on Wall Street. Martin said, "I'm in the position of having advocated safe driving and now am accused of causing all the accidents."

Five years ago: At least 100 persons were killed in fighting between government forces and guerrillas in Jordan.

One year ago: President Nixon notified the House Judiciary Committee that he must draw the line and refuse to provide additional Watergate evidence.

Today's birthdays: Britain's Prince Philip is 54. Former Astronaut James McDivitt is 46.

Thought for today: A man is what he thinks about all day long — Ralph Waldo Emerson, America writer, 1803-1882.

Bicentennial footnote: In the first days of the Revolutionary War, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia asked New England Colonies to provide powder to the Massachusetts army.

British Columbia prison inmates seize hostages

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (AP) — A standoff prevailed early today at the British Columbia Penitentiary, where three inmates seized 14 hostages and demanded free passage to a foreign country.

Prison Director Dragon Cernetic said the prisoners, all serving life sentences, relayed their demands through several reporters, a lawyer and a member of the Communist party of Canada.

A Vancouver radio newsman who visited the inmates and their hostages twice Monday said they were closeted in a storage vault that had only one door, no windows and two air vents.

Gary Bannerman of station CKNW said during each of his visits, one of the convicts was holding a knife to the throat of a woman hostage.

The inmates demanded painkilling drugs and Bannerman said they were given demerol and a tranquilizer, valium. Prison officials said the inmates had a history of taking drugs.

They also demanded an Army helicopter to take them and their hostages to the airport and, from there, transportation to an undisclosed foreign country.

The inmates were Andy Bruce, 26, of Prince Albert, Sask., serving life for murder; Claire Wilson, 25, serving life for attempted murder and escape, and Douglas Lucas 20, of Winnipeg, serving life for murder, authorities said.

Cernetic said the inmates "are controlling their behavior and emotions as are the hostages." He said they have established no deadline for meeting the demands.

"They seem to realize this will have to be brought to the attention of the commissioner of penitentiaries and the minister of external affairs before anything further can be done to meet their demands," he said. Cernetic did not estimate how long such moves might take.

The three prisoners seized 18 hostages at knifepoint about 8 a.m. Monday. A female classification officer managed to escape immediately and two inmate-hostages were released before noon. Then classification officer Bruce Innes was released because he reportedly suffered a recent heart attack.

Classification officers assign work and counsel inmates.

The others being held were not identified. At least three of the hostages were women.

Cernetic said none of the other 450 prisoners at the penitentiary was involved in the uprising.

UMW pact ends strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — North American Coal Co. signed a contract with the United Mine Workers union Monday to end a 20-week strike at the Indianhead mine at Zap, N.D., union officials said.

The mine's workers ratified the contract over the weekend by a 35-1 vote.

The contract, the Western Surface Coal Wage Agreement, covers 15 subbituminous and lignite mines owned by nine Western coal operators. The old contract expired Jan. 12, 1975.

North American's signing means only Amax Coal Co.'s Bellaire plant at Gillette, Wyo., does not have a UMW agreement, union officials here said.

UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick said the union would concentrate on getting Amax to sign a contract.

"This contract victory in North Dakota should serve notice on Amax that the UMWA is not going to be driven out of the Western states," Patrick said.

Nuclear plant aids Ohio River town

MOSCOW, Ohio (AP) — Thanks to the construction of a nuclear power plant in its backyard, the small Ohio River town of Moscow is making big plans for sanitary sewers, storm sewers and a new town hall.
"We have come a long way in just a few years," resident Dr. Richard O'Neill says. "We are attempting to keep the village in its historical context, but we must have services that are as good as Cincinnati can afford."
The town, which has become a retreat for Cincinnati residents who want a weekend respite from city life, is taking advantage of the nuclear plant being constructed by Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. to finance these services. The village council voted to annex 40 per cent of the plant's territory and instituted a one per cent payroll tax on workers who spend all of their working day in the village limits.
The village will receive its first tax earnings July 1.
But the effect of the plant is more than financial, for the town is now bustling again with a population during working hours of 1,600 including workers.
The plant's $20 million cooling tower is visible from every corner of the little town and is an unusual sight in a place where most of the houses were built in the late 1700s and early 1800s.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — And now, for something completely different: ABC, which rejected "Monty Python's Flying Circus" before the British comedy series clicked on public TV, will give it a 90-minute shot next fall.

The minutes will be material that hasn't been sold to public TV in the United States, though there might be one or two classic scenes from shows already exposed to American viewers.

That's the word from Bob Shanks, ABC's vice-president for late-night programming. No date has been set yet for the Python special, but it'll appear in ABC's "Wide World of Entertainment" slot late at night.

Shanks cautions that the special doesn't necessarily portend a run of Python parties at ABC: "There are a lot of options involved and I get a headache when I read them. It's very complicated."

"And we certainly don't want to do anything to ruffle public television's position on the show, not that I really think it would. It's one of those unusual programs where the people who live it can't get enough of it."

The program, 30 minutes of various wacky skits, some racy by commercial TV standards here, was made for the British Broadcasting Corp., which aired it from 1969 through 1972.

It made its U.S. debut last October on just 23 public TV outlets, but caught on like wildfire. It now is seen on 113 PTV stations, says Time-Life Television, Inc., its American distributor.

Time-Life says most stations signed for three 13-show Python packages. There's one more 13-week package left — ABC will cull excerpts from this for its special — but the package hasn't been released yet.

A Time-Life spokesman calls ABC's purchase "a 'let's-see-what-happens' arrangement. If it hits big, something may grow out of it." He said no deal has been made yet for other Python showings on ABC.

If ABC opts for more Pythonery, Shanks said, he has three options: (a) Buy and air material sold public TV after its PTV run ends; (b) buy the as-yet unreleased Python package; (c) start new production "if that seems realistic to everybody."

Item "c" is a big question mark. Both Shanks and Time-Life don't know if the fiercely independent Python troupe would even want to make new shows.

Steelworkers back at Marion

MARION, Ohio (AP) — A three-month strike by 1,100 members of the United Steelworkers Local 1949 at Marion Power Shovel Co. ended Monday with the initial return of maintenance workers at the facility.

Union members voted 2-1 to ratify a contract over the weekend. It replaced an agreement that expired March 1, also when the strike began.

Youths escape from facility

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Three boys who escaped from the Fairfield School for Boys near Lancaster in February and April were captured by police Sunday night.

Acting on a tip, officers said they went to the city's northwest side where the trio was caught.

Officers declined to identify the youngsters who were from Canton and Meyers Lake.

Osteopaths support malpractice bill

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Osteopathic Association voted unanimously to support the Ohio Medical Malpractice Bill pending before the Ohio Legislature.

The association endorsed all provisions of the bill, including those sections calling for restructuring of the medical system of Ohio. The vote came at the group's state convention here.

"We strongly endorse those sections of the bill which require 150 hours of continuing medical education every three years for all physicians," said Dr. Martin E. Levitt, the association president.

"We also support provisions which strengthen the Ohio State Medical Board's power to revoke licenses of doctors who are found negligent in their practice."

4-H NUTRITION CLINIC SCHEDULED

4-H Nutrition members, their parents and advisors will have an opportunity to preview the fair judging activities from 7:30 until 9:30 P.M., Thursday at the Mahan Hall on the Fairgrounds.

Junior Leaders serving on the nutrition committee will be preparing the members for judging questions asked on nutrition, menu planning and table setting. Following a general session for the whole group, mini-project groups will be formed so that members can see and ask questions about displays of specific project food samples. Each member will get an idea of what to expect during the judging by viewing a sample interview.

Judges have encouraged the committee to offer this type of clinic each year. They find the girls are more relaxed and respond much better to the questions as they understand that judging is a learning experience.

Time will also be spent during the meeting answering questions about requirement for exhibits and judging registration procedures.

Nutritional refreshments will be served at the close of the training meeting.

The nutrition committee is composed of Brenda Steinhauer, Junior Fair Board member, Nancy Rapp, Lisa Jackson, Carol Rex, Teresa Palmer, Kathy Junk and Peggy Mayer, Junior Leaders; and Juanita Wright, Linda Satterfield, Martha Carmen, and Ann Thompson, 4-H Advisers.

Deputies probe hit-skip crash

A hit-skip accident is presently under investigation by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies and a second accident involving a truck and a sign was also reported.

An unidentified vehicle heading south on U.S. 62, near the U.S. 35 intersection, side-swiped a car driven by Effie E. Goolsby, 53, of 6240 Miami Trace Rd., and tore the mirror from his vehicle in the collision, while Goolsby was traveling in a northerly direction. The mishap occurred at 9 a.m. Monday, sheriff's deputies reported.

A truck driven by Barry S. Udvardy, 23, North Olmstead, struck a gasoline price sign at the Omega service station, I-71 and U.S. 35, at 9:30 p.m. Monday, deputies also reported.

Theft reported

An occupant of one of the rooms at the Dollar Motel Inn, U.S. 35 and I-71, evidently wanted some souvenirs to commemorate their stay since sometime between Friday and Saturday, two pillows, a bed spread, a blanket, a sheet and three towels were taken.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft and searching for the person responsible.

Kentucky pen has 'good squad'

GILBERTSVILLE, KY. (AP) — Two state penitentiary inmates have painted a much darker picture of prison life in secret testimony before the Governor's Select Commission than appeared in their own open testimony or that of ten other convicts.

The Associated Press has learned that the commission was told Monday that two suicides at the Eddyville institution last year may have been killings, possibly by guards, and that a "goon squad" exists, consisting of five guards who quell disturbances with force.

Sources said one of the prisoners who testified secretly also told the seven-member panel that a guard in a watch tower observed a fatal stabbing on the prison grounds last Saturday, but turned his back.

Long escape ends for youths

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The last of five escapees from Indian River School for boys in Massillon was back in custody Monday, authorities said.

Ronald Ritchie, 17, of Alliance surrendered to police in his hometown over the weekend after his parents talked to him, police said.

He was returned to the youth detention facility Sunday, one week after five youths escaped the institution.

The other four were captured within two days after the breakout. They jumped a guard and took his keys in the escape, institution officials said.

Kiwanians award scholarships

Four local students were awarded scholarships of $200 each Monday night at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Washington C. H. Kiwanis Club in the Lafayette Inn.

Although the awards were announced by the schools during commencement exercises this weekend, the students had not yet been introduced to the Kiwanis Club members:

Connie Hughes and Bruce Jones were the recipients from Miami Trace High School, and Julie Foster and Jeff DaRif were selected from Washington Senior High School.

Money for the scholarship awards was generated by the club through the annual Teen Talent Show held in April.

Each student thanked the club and briefly explained his plans for the immediate future.

Miss Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hughes, 8107 Jenks Rd., plans to attend Morehead (Ky.) State University and major in social science.

Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones, 1061 Bogus Rd., will enroll in the New York Technical School in Columbus and plans to major in auto mechanics.

Miss Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Foster, 825 Rawlings St., plans to attend Ohio State University and concentrate on social work.

Florida washed away by rain

KIDRON, Ohio (AP) — The entire United States is a playground for the students at Kidron Elementary School.

Students at the school painted a 120-by-60-foot map of the U.S. on the asphalt playground last week.

The map was drawn by six sixth grade students who chalked out grid lines of latitude and longitude to scale. However, rain washed away part of the map and Florida is still missing from the nation after 20 gallons of red, blue, yellow, light green and dark green house paint was used to illustrate the states.

DaRif, son of Mrs. Lawrence DaRif, 727 Carolyn Rd., will also attend Ohio State University. He plans to pursue a career in pharmacy.

After the presentation of the scholarships, Ora Burdge discussed taxes. He traced the history of taxation from colonial times to the present.

He noted that mandated taxes are a relatively new phenomenon in the United States, and are imposed at the federal, state and local level. As a result, he said, Americans now suffer from involuntary taxation.

Burdge explained that those who oppose such taxation should make themselves heard by writing to their legislators and expressing their opinion.

Guests Barry O'Brian and Greg Armbrust came with Dick Maddux and Norm Armbrust respectively.

"IT TOOK A LOT OF NERVE for you just to put those shorts on," joked Muhammad Ali when Randy Angel of Greenfield nervously stepped into the ring with the heavyweight boxing champion at Ali's training camp at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev. recently. Ali, who was training for his bout with Ron Lyle, never managed to lay a glove on Angel, an employee at the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H. Angel, weighing in at 160 pounds, was nearly dwarfed beside the heavyweight champ, but was garbed properly for the occasion in a pair of Greenfield McClain High School gym trunks. Before area sports fans begin thinking that the Washington C.H. area has a title contender, it must be pointed out that Angel's ring appearance was arranged by the fight's promoters after he had purchased a $100 ringside seat for the Ali-Lyle bout.

Reds slip, but still on top

Parker pounds Reds

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP)—Baseball was Dave Parker's downfall as a youthful ballpark vendor. But those disastrous days at Cincinnati's Crosley Field are paying a profit for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I sold lemonade and peanuts. But I didn't sell much. I was too busy watching the game," said the towering Pittsburgh slugger.

The Cincinnati native, once touted as Roberto Clemente's successor, celebrated his 24th birthday Monday night by crashing a three-run homer in the first inning, keying a 9-2 romp over the Cincinnati Reds before a national television audience.

"It's always nice coming home and beating the Big Red Machine," said Parker. "I lived a street over the old Crosley Field and I was always over at the ballpark."

"I worked out with the Reds once. My childhood idols were Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson. I always wanted to be a ballplayer," said Parker, who was Pittsburgh's 14th draft choice in 1970.

Parker, veteran Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk had three RBIs each as the Bucs snapped Cincinnati's four-game winning streak.

Parker, who had three hits, drew high praise from Stargell. "They can talk about Dave Winfield of San Diego and the others all they want," he said. "But Dave has a hell of a future ahead of him. He has an unlimited amount of ability. He's going to be around a long time."

The victory went to Jerry Reuss, 6-4, who was given a 5-0 first inning bulge.

The victim was Fred Norman, 2-3, who has been virtually invincible at Riverfront Stadium, winning 20 of 26 decisions there during his career.

Stargell, who said he's getting into the swing of things after a slow start, greeted reliever Rawly Eastwick with a three-run blast in the fourth. It was Stargell's ninth of the year.

Zisk, who had produced the game's first two runs with a bases-loaded single in the first, followed with a tape measure clout to left field, his third of the season.

Pittsburgh's nine runs and 15 hits were the most given up by Cincinnati pitchers this year. Rene Stennett had four hits for the Pirates.

The Reds, who entered the game with 16 victories in their last 19 games, managed a pair of runs over Reuss in the fifth, on Johnny Bench's 18th double of the year which scored Ed Armbrister, and Tony Perez' single.

Reuss, who threatened to no-hit the Reds last week before Dave Concepcion's line drive single caromed off his knee, said beating Cincinnati produced no particular thrill.

"They're one of the top three teams in the league—them, Los Angeles and us—but I'm not particular who I beat. I just want to win," said Reuss.

"I had five-run lead real quick but I still had to do my job. You have to go one pitch and one inning at a time. You just try to keep the ball in the ballpark against them," he said.

Reliever Will McEneaney managed to salvage a degree of respectability for the Reds by extending his seven-week scoreless stint with two shutout innings. Unscored upon in the last 24 and one third innings, he lowered his team-leading ERA to 0.93.

The two division leaders wind up their two-game series tonight with Pat Darcy, 1-2, facing Sam McDowell, 1-1.

Cubs 4, Astros 3
The Astrodome nearly suffered a first, mainly a rainout.

Instead, Houston suffered through its ninth straight defeat, the result of Jerry Morales' tie-breaking double in the 10th-inning for the Cubs.

The game was delayed 54 minutes by a torrential downpour that flooded roads around the indoor stadium, causing both fans and players to be late, and knocking out communications at the ballpark.

Dodgers 4, Expos 0

Andy Messersmith said all along that all the Dodgers needed to get going again was home cooking. Against the Expos, Messersmith was cookin' with gas, striking out 12 Expos en route to a four-hitter and his second straight shutout.

Cards 5, Braves 4

Ted Simmons ruined Blue Moon Odom's debut with the Braves by ripping a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fifth inning that boosted the Cardinals past Atlanta.

Giants 5, Mets 3

San Francisco, trailing New York 4-1 in the bottom of the ninth, tied the game with three runs, then Bruce Miller greeted reliever Bob Apodaca with a game-winning single.

Padres 8, Phillies 5

John Grubb and Enzo Hernandez each drove in two runs to push the Padres past the Phillies. Grubb drove in his runs with two doubles and Hernandez had four of San Diego's 14 hits.

A's 4, Orioles 3

Vida Blue, not one to waste effort, came out of the bullpen in the 15th inning, threw one pitch and preserved the Oakland triumph. Joe Rudi's single had chased home Bill North with the winning run minutes earlier.

Royals 5, Tigers 2

Amos Otis hit a two-run, inside-the-park home run in the eighth inning to highlight Kansas City's victory over Detroit. "That's the hardest I've run in a long time," offered Otis, who has tried for the circuit four times in the past and been thrown out at the plate each time.

Veteran Lindy McDaniel picked up the victory with five innings of four-hit relief.

Brewers 1, White Sox 0

Darrel Porter's home run in the ninth inning provided Milwaukee's run. In Sunday's game, Porter had driven in all four of the Brewers' runs.

Three Milwaukee pitchers held the White Sox to three hits.

Angels 5, Yankees 3

Pinch-hitter Bruce Bochte scored Dave Collins with a ninth-inning single to carry California past Catfish Hunter and the Yankees, ending New York's eight-game winning streak.

Sports for women increases rapidly at Big Ten schools

By MARTHA HAIR
Associated Press Writer

Spending for intercollegiate women's sports at the Big Ten universities is increasing in leaps and bounds, school officials report, along with participation and recognition for the athletes.

At some schools the money put into women's sports jumped more than 10-fold in recent years. At Northwestern, the only private school in the conference, there still is no program.

Budget allocations still separate the girls from the boys, however, with women's sports getting only a fraction of the men's budget. And at many schools, women get different awards from the men for athletic prowess, sometimes because women want it that way.

The situation at Minnesota magnifies the women's sports boom. Two years ago, 184 athletes participated in a meager $1,500 program. Next year, 300 women are expected to participate, and the budget will be $250,000.

Similar growth was recorded at Ohio State, where the athletic director said the department is trying to double the women's budget each year. The request for the coming year is $177,000.

At Indiana, the budget next year will be $185,000. In 1973, it was only $18,000. At Illinois, it was $10,000 in 1971 and $82,000 last year.

Northwestern officials say a woman's sports program will begin next fall, but the details haven't been worked out yet.

Michigan gave women's sports $7,000 from the general fund last year. For 1975-76, women have a budget of $80,000, including coaches salaries.

But male Wolverine alumni athletes are fighting to keep women out of the "M Club" and from receiving the Block M award. The controversy inspired the president of the Graduate "M Club" to write alums, asking for help in keeping the Block M away from women athletes.

The board in control at Michigan was to decide tonight whether women will receive the men's award.

At Minnesota, women were awarded letter "M's" this year, the same award men receive. Women also have been invited to join the "M Club."

Wisconsin women's athletics director Kit Saunders said women receive the "W" in 11 sports. At Illinois, men and women receive the same honor awards, and Purdue's athletic department is revising regulations to award letters to women.

Still, not all women athletes want the male awards. At Iowa, women voted against receiving letter awards, according to women's athletic director Christine Grant. The same thing happened at Indiana.

Ohio State's assistant director of women's sports Barbara Hinton said OSU's women students designed their own patch award rather than receive letters because women wanted something that "would distinguish us and say we were Ohio State University women athletes. We're very satisfied with the system."

At Michigan State, women designed green jackets with "MSU" embroidered in script ... so attractive the men say they want jackets instead of letters too, according to a spokesman.

Participation throughout Big Ten schools has risen with funding. Indiana Athletic Director Bill Orwig says the number of athletes is up 25 per cent since 1972 to 300 women last year.

New book store to open here

The Gallery book store at 120 N. Fayette St. will open this week with 440 linear feet of reading material. Or in other words, store will be offering approximately 3,000 paperback books, 700-800 magazines and one large rack filled with bestselling hardback books.

The Gallery, owned by the Hubert News Agency, Inc. of Wilmington, will be the second book store established by the firm. Donald Hubert, owner, said the firm has been in operation since 1962 as a wholesale magazine and book distributor servicing five counties and has experienced noted success with the Gallery store opened in Wilmington over a year ago.

The Washington C. H. store is opening after complete remodeling of the bright orange building formerly occupied by Kaufman's Big 'n Tall store. The building is now light blue in color and has undergone total interior renovation with new carpeting, paneled walls and a lowered ceiling.

Hubert, who is leasing the building from Mrs. Ida Kaufman, of Washington C. H., has replaced the racks of shoes and clothing of the Kaufman store with 1,400 square feet of books and magazines.

The Gallery will feature a best-sellers rack and new releases shelf which will change weekly. Hubert said approximately 70 to 80 new titles will be offered each week in the store.

The paperbacks will fall under categories of nonfiction, fiction, mystery, western, adult books, games and humor, gothic, romance, young people's, classics, reference, hobby books, comics and science fiction.

The magazine racks, measuring 40 feet in length, are filled with every subject, title and size of popular and specialized reading material including news magazines, teens, womens, sports, music, crossword puzzles, photography, romance, detective, cartoons, mens and household publications.

Hubert added the store could specially order any hardback books that were not on the shelves of the store. The store also plans to carry a line of boxed and bagged candy.

Three employees will man the store including manager Ms. Betsy Chapman of Wilmington.

Store manager Betsy Chapman

Ms. Chapman, 25, was previously employed with the Gallery in Wilmington before being promoted to the management position in Washington C. H. A native of Wilmington and a 1968 graduate of Wilmington High School, she has also worked at the Wilmington Department Store and a South Carolina dress shop for five years.

The store will be open from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday except Friday, when the book store will remain open until 8:30 p.m.

Petroleum exporters won't quote prices

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has agreed to quote prices for crude oil in the International Monetary Fund's special drawing rights instead of in dollars. The move is sure to mean an increase in prices.

Now a committee of experts is discussing how and when to make the change. A special drawing right, called an SDR, is an artificial unit of currency whose value is computed from the average of 16 major currencies. The change could mean higher prices in countries when their currencies are comparatively weak — as the dollar, the British pound and the Italian lira are now — and lower prices in countries with strong currencies, such as West Germany and Switzerland.

OPEC sources said the committee of experts is discussing two proposals: to make the change by basing oil prices on the value of the SDR last October, which would increase the base price of crude oil about 70 cents a barrel, or to use the January value of the SDR, which would mean an increase of about 50 cents.

The present base price, which OPEC has pledged to maintain until September, is $10.46 a barrel.

The change is being made to offset the depreciated value of the dollar, in which international oil prices have been figured ever since World War II.

The OPEC sources said that the current meeting is not discussing proposals to make up revenue losses due to inflation, and these will be studied by a special committee meeting next month at the organization's headquarters in Vienna.

The Libreville meeting is also discussing the standardization of prices for premium quality crude oils in the various member countries in an effort to eliminate price cutting by some of the less affluent Arab oil sheikdoms.

The meeting is also discussing how OPEC can do for the prices of natural gas what it has done for crude oil prices.

Stamps In The News

Back in 1932, the U.S. issued a series of stamps in 12 denominations to honor the bicentennial of George Washington's birth. Next month, a vignette reproduced in a block of four taken from an original engraving prepared for the three-cent commemorative stamp of that series will be featured on a new philatelic souvenir card.

It will be issued in conjunction with the participation of the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing in NAPEX '75 (National Postal Exhibitions of Washington, D.C.) to be held May 9-11 in the nation's capital. The central part of the stamp depicts the likeness of Washington in the uniform of a general reproduced from a portrait by

Adhesions After the Operation

What causes adhesions to form after an operation?

Mr. E.W., W. Va.

Dear Mr. W.:

Adhesions are thin bands of tissue that can form anywhere in the abdomen after an operation.

Infection is one of the reasons for the deposit of these firm bands of fibrous tissue.

When there is a severe infection within the abdominal cavity, nature forms these adhesions to trap in a pocket and thus localize an infection.

Some people have a tendency towards the formation of adhesions. The exact reason why they occur in some patients and not in others is not completely understood.

Modern advances in surgery, more delicate instruments, and the speed and skill of the surgeon have reduced the frequency and severity of adhesions following abdominal surgery.

Whenever I have a late brassy I can't fall asleep. My heart seems to pound and race like a motor. Is this a common reaction?

Mr. B.A., Ark.

Patients frequently complain that the alcoholic concentration of brandy does produce symptoms such as you describe.

The inability to sleep is due to the stimulation of the brandy. The rapidity of the heartbeat, known as "paroxysmal tachycardia," can also occur with bouts of drinking, overindulgence in food, with some stimulating drugs and with tobacco.

The best solution, of course, is to avoid brandy.

Is ringworm of the skin contagious?

Miss L.R., Ky.

Dear Miss R.: Ringworm is, indeed, a highly contagious fungus infection. It is most frequently caused by the "trichophyton." Sometimes it is called "tinea."

There are many different types of ringworm, named after the area of the body that is involved. It can occur on the scalp, the beard, on the groin, on the feet and around the fingernails.

Rigid hygiene, coupled with the excellent anti-fungus drugs that are now available, can almost always control these annoying, but nondangerous infections.

Opening lead - seven of clubs.

Whenever you're faced with an apparently impossible task, it pays to take some extra time to try to solve your problem. This is especially true in a grand slam, where the stakes are so big that you can't afford to overlook even a remote possibility.

North's four notrump bid for aces was certainly reasonable, but his failure to inquire for kings was clearly wrong.

Superficially, seven notrump seems hopeless, but actually

South had about an even chance for the contract. All he needed for the grand slam to come home was for either opponent to have both missing kings. In that case, a legitimate squeeze could be developed against him.

South cashed five diamond tricks, followed by three more rounds of clubs, at which point this became the position:

North	South

When declarer now played dummy's nine of clubs, discarding a heart, West found himself in trouble.

A heart discard would allow South to cash the ace of hearts and win the last two tricks in dummy, while a spade discard would allow South to cash the ace of spades and win the last two tricks in the closed hand.

West finally parted with a spade, hoping against hope that East had the queen, and South easily scored the rest of the tricks. So North's venture into the unknown succeeded, thus proving that some misbids occasionally pay off.

Mosquito Lake gets camping facilities

CORTLAND, Ohio (AP)— Mosquito Lake State Park is getting new camping facilities in an effort to draw visitors to the once popular recreation area.

About 230 camping pads, a camp road system, latrines and a boat launching ramp will be constructed by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources at a cost of $1.1 million. The state also is spending $388,000 to improve parking and for docks at the marina.

The park, which is near the Mosquito Reservoir in Trumbull county, used to be the second most popular state park, says Donald L. Whipple, park manager. He notes that overcrowded and inadequate camping conditions forced the state to close the campgrounds in 1970.

"With added facilities, I am sure visitation will grow again," he says. "We've had some of the best walleye fishing in Ohio."

The reservoir was built by the U.S. Corps of Engineers as a combination flood control and water supply lake for the Warren-Youngstown area.

The state maintains a public swimming beach and a water skiing area on the lake. It also maintains a wildlife refuge area.

Medical expenses hurt Clevelanders

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— An investigation by the General Accounting Office (GOA) revealed that more than half of the outpatients at Cleveland hospitals and clinics cannot pay their medical bills and are not covered by private or government medical insurance.

The GOA, the investigating arm of Congress, found that in 1973 there were 785,322 outpatient visits to Cleveland clinics and hospitals.

The investigation revealed that poor patients ran up bills of about $12.9 million of which they paid $2.1 million, or 16 per cent. The balance was paid by federal, state and city money as well as hospital and charitable contributions.

In Focus

by Charlie Pensyl

Back quite a few years ago some photographer discovered that he had enough light to make a picture from a lightning flash. The problem was to get the lightning to go off at just the right time to make the picture. Then the idea came to him to follow the example of Coca Cola and bottle it. Thus was born the flash bulb. Dad, that first flashbulb was something else — the size of a household light bulb and filled with foil and oxygen. It was bottled lightning.

When the number 5 bulb came out (it was called the peanut bulb) people said it would never put out enough light to make a picture; too small. Then came the M-2 and M-3 and later the AG-1.

When the cube hit the market that seemed to be the end of the line on this track since electronic flash was showing the older type of flash out of the picture. Then came the Magicubes (look, ma, no wires) and then the Supercubes. Enter, stage right, the flash bar. Polaroid's SX-70 cleared the way for its introduction. It had some advantages but its low profile was no help to the blue-eyed families; you know, that demon, red-eye.

So now there is a new flash thing. May I present the FLIPFLASH. Well, it looks something like the flashbar but it mounts on the camera by the ends so that the business area where the light comes from is more remote from the lens, thus minimizing red-eye. And if that doesn't do the job there's a flip-flash extender to get it still farther away. What do you put this newfangled flipflash on? The TRIMLITE INSTAMATIC Cameras, of course. But that's another story for another time.

School district threatened with loss of state funding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The strike-torn South Point School District in Lawrence County has been threatened with loss of its state aid next year unless it reopens schools for eight more days this month.

The State Board of Education advised the district Monday that it must make up the lost days or the state will withhold 1975-76 school foundation payments.

The situation results from a teachers strike that began at South Point May 5 and remained unresolved when the school term ended June 2.

The South Point Board of Education fired 114 strikers under the state's Ferguson Act and attempted to keep schools open with substitutes and administrators manning the classrooms.

But the state board said an Education Department assessment team had determined that eight school days alleged by the South Point district to have been open could not be counted. In other business, the board approved spending $303,839 for production of five classroom television series to be aired over the state's 12 educational TV stations.

Two of the series, on mental health and metric education, will be produced through the support of various other states and Canadian provinces by the Agency for Instructional Television in Bloomington, Ind.

Series on mathematics and Ohio history will be produced by WCET in Cincinnati, while WVIZ in Cleveland will produce a series on great Americans.

The board voted to transfer territory from the Woodridge Local School District in Summit County to the Akron City School District and from the Van Buren Local School District in Hancock County to the Findlay City School District.

Both transfers had been requested by the city districts following annexation of the territories for municipal purposes and had been recommended by public hearing referees.

In another school transfer case, the board ordered the Newark City and North Fork Local boards to enter into cooperative long-range planning to determine the best possible school boundary between the two districts. The districts are to report to the state board at its December meeting.

Among other actions, the board: —Approved requests to change the name of the Western Stark County

Joint Vocational School District to the Stark County Area Joint Vocational School District, and the Van Wert County Area Joint Vocational School District to the Vantage Joint Vocational School District.

—Chartered the Fairfield Local School District in Butler County as a city district, effective July 1, 1976.

—Authorized the Deerfield Union Local School District to seek voter approval of a $1,060,000 bond issue for school construction.

—Approved contracts totaling $2.2 million with nine universities to provide vocational teacher education and supervision in the 1975-76 school year.

Schools told all-male sports violate law

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an increasing number of court decisions, schools are being told their all-male sports programs violate the law and that they must admit women to their teams.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is counting on the pattern of court rulings to be persuasive with Congress as the lawmakers review new and sweeping rules barring sex discrimination in the nation's schools and colleges, according to John B. Rhinelander, the department's general counsel.

Unless Congress negates the HEW rules by July 21, they will go into effect automatically. The rejection can be only on the narrow grounds that the regulations, which HEW issued last week, are inconsistent with what Congress intended in passing the law in 1972. Congress, of course, could also alter the 1972 law.

Rhinelander said he thought Congress would approve the regulations and that the pattern of recent court cases would be influential because it shows that sports are to be considered an integral part of the overall educational system.

Critics contend that sports are not federally financed and that the ban on discrimination should not have been interpreted to encompass any of the athletic programs.

Supporters say, however, that all aspects of a school system must be accountable to the nondiscrimination law, especially since athletic programs use school facilities and are coached by persons on the over-all school faculty. They point to recent court rulings that have, apparently with rare exceptions in the last five years, found athletics to be an integral part of a tax-supported school system.

Courts have recently decided in favor of women students and against school districts or state athletic associations on the sports-sex discrimination question in Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Michigan and Indiana, among other places.

Millions of motorists enjoy having special license tags for their cars. President Harry Truman's tag number was 5745, commemorating Germany's surrender in World War II on May 7, 1945.

Avco sells off Midwest stations

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Avco Broadcasting Corp. is getting out of the broadcast business and selling off stations in its midwest network.

"Our parent company has decided to get out of the broadcasting business," said John T. Murphy, Avco president, "and we have been very fortunate to find purchasers for our television stations in San Antonio, Indianapolis, Columbus and now Cincinnati interests."

Avco announced Monday it has agreed in principle to sell television station WLW-TV in Cincinnati to Multimedia, Inc.

The joint announcement by the two firms is subject to the approval of the boards of directors of both corporations, completion of a definitive agreement and the approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

Murphy said he was presently conducting negotiations for the sale of WLW radio to Cincinnati interests.
